Titus 'best choice' for Circuit Court judge

The 2020 General Election has been touted by many as the most significant election in our nation's history. That indeed may be the case given the issues facing our country. But even with much attention being placed on state and national contests, the importance of local contests cannot be overlooked.

In one such local contest this coming November, Carroll County voters have the fortunate opportunity to affirm Maryland Gov. Larry Hogan's appointment of Richard Titus as a Judge of the Carroll County Circuit Court. The very fact that Titus has twice been appointed by the governor suggests that Titus possesses the qualities, values, and legal expertise needed to be a judge of the Carroll County Circuit Court.

Having known Judge Titus and his wife for many years, I can attest to his care, compassion and understanding of the legal needs of his clients. I can also unequivocally state that Judge Titus is a person of high moral standards.

Ultimately, however, it is his knowledge of the law, his respect for the law, and his desire to carry out the law fairly and without bias that make him the best choice for judge of the Carroll County Circuit Court.
